River Alliance supporter:

On behalf of the River Alliance of Wisconsin Board of Directors and staff, I am pleased to share with you a summary of our most recent financial report. You are among our leading donors and we want you to know what our nonprofit's finances look like and how we work to be good stewards of your generous contributions to our organization.

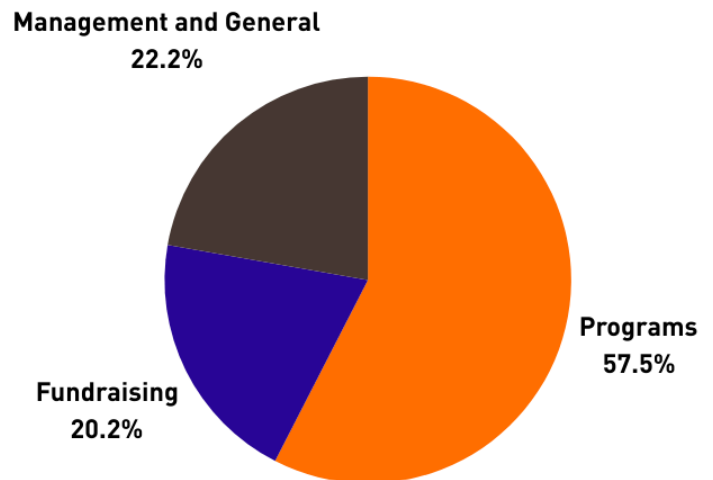

You are among over 1,500 River Alliance donors throughout Wisconsin, and beyond. Your support makes a critical impact on our programs and our mission. This ongoing work requires a long-term commitment to tackling the systemic challenges our water system faces. The following successes underscore the impact you have as a donor on the future of Wisconsin's water.

In our last fiscal year, River Alliance of Wisconsin:

- Celebrated our 30th anniversary with gatherings around the state and online to reflect on the progress we made with our partners to challenge metallic mining, dams, water pollution and other barriers to clean water,
- Worked with local, statewide, tribal and grassroots partners to monitor proposed metallic mining projects and changes in federal law,
 - Deeply listened to leaders in our food system as we convened a core group to advise our upcoming Wisconsin Agricultural Agenda, a unique guide for policies that help us grow food in a way that protects water and supports rural life,
 - Provided legal analysis and advocacy support on issues related to PFAS contamination in drinking water, including participating in litigation to defend our state's spills law and opposing legislation that would compromise our state's ability to hold polluters accountable, and
 - Deepened our commitment to justice, equity, diversity and inclusion by weaving JEDI principles throughout our five-year strategic plan.

Revenue: $796,268

Expenses: $767,738

We are changing the way we share our annual report. We want to use less paper. We want our annual impact summary to be more accessible. We also want our entire community of supporters to be recognized for their volunteerism and donations.

Thank you for your vital role in our successes, now and in the future. Please visit wisconsinrivers.org/year-end-2023 to view our program highlights from the year.

Sincerely,

Allison Werner, Executive Director
River Alliance of Wisconsin

P.S. We appreciate your support to allow us the opportunity to empower people to protect and restore our waters. Your continued support will help us reach more people and communities.
